

Elgin Suapengco, BScPT, PTRP

Director of Rehabilitation | Physiotherapist | Biomechanical practitioner | Shockwave therapist | Foot & Ankle practitioner

With 17 years of experience, Elgin Suapengco has been a shockwave practitioner since 2004. His journey started at The Foot Institute, an Edmonton based clinic that specializes in foot & ankle surgery and care. Working alongside podiatrists in foot & ankle rehabilitation. Elgin started shockwave therapy for dealing with various foot & ankle problems including plantar fasciitis, tendonitis (achilles, posterior tibialis, & peroneal), hallux limitus, hallux rigidus, Morton's Neuroma, & retro calcaneal exostosis. During the early years of his practice, he covered multiple cities across the province of Alberta, introducing the new technique while treating patients with it. Throughout the years, he has found benefits using shockwave therapy on different conditions such as tennis elbow, golfer's elbow, shin splint, bursitis, etc. Utilizing his many years of practice, Elgin has established his own clinic for rehabilitation and is currently the Director of Rehabilitation at PhysioLogix Allied Health Services. Partnered with a team of medical rehabilitation specialists, PhysioLogix is quickly becoming the pinnacle of multispecialty musculoskeletal care in Edmonton and across Canada.
